

Assessing and Managing Lethality In Domestic Violence, Stalking and Strangulation

Thursday, February 2, 2017

1:00-4:00 p.m.

Alexandria Technical and Community College, Room 205
1601 Jefferson Street, Alexandria MN

This training will help law enforcement, staff and volunteers who respond to victims of domestic violence learn how to identify the signs and red-flags of domestic violence lethality and best practices response; learn how to recognize the identifiers and risks of stalking and strangulation for victims, and investigate and document the cases for prosecution to enhance victim safety.

This course will include:

- An overview of domestic violence lethality and effects on law enforcement;
- Review of lethality and red-flags for violence;
- Best practices in domestic violence response;
- Introduction to stalking and stalking evidence;
- Strangulation

Instructor: Sgt. Randy McAlister, MA, CTM

Staff and volunteers in these fields are encouraged to attend: law enforcement officers, dispatchers, attorneys, judges and court staff, advocates, probation officers, child protection staff, social workers, nurses, and doctors.

This training is sponsored by Someplace Safe and United Communities Advocating Non Violence (UCAN) in cooperation with Alexandria Technical and Community College.

Fee: Training is free of charge. Registration is requested. Call 320-762-4406 or email sandyl@alextech.edu.

Course approval has been requested for 3 general CLE credit. Request is pending. POST approved for 3 hours/POST Number 8207-0084.